

Mirror

Sajid Javid says it's fine for Tory MPs to not wear masks... Read more

Ready for take-off:
These travel stocks...

Ad eToro

When We Ordered
HelloFresh We Didn'...

Ad The Daily Foodies

► AdChoices

Like Comments Share

The Tory Health Secretary has been slammed for saying it's fine for Conservative MPs not to wear masks in Parliament - because "they're not strangers".

Sajid Javid was accused of not understanding his own Covid guidance after he mounted the extraordinary defence of MPs ignoring guidance in the Commons chamber.

Government guidance since July says: "You are expected and recommended to continue wearing a face covering in crowded and enclosed spaces where you come into contact with people you don't usually meet."

Yet Tory MPs have largely ignored the guidance when sitting in the closely-packed Commons chamber. That's prompted a complaint from unions representing Parliament staff, who urged the Speaker to intervene.

And yesterday Downing Street released images of Boris Johnson's Cabinet meeting with no masks or social distancing > inside No10.

Today Mr Javid defended the images, despite the fact his own Covid Winter Plan recommends face coverings in "crowded and enclosed settings".

8

© Andrew Parsons / No10 Downing Street Boris Johnson in a crowded Cabinet meeting yesterday

Confronted with the photo of the Cabinet meeting he claimed: "That is perfectly consistent with what the Prime Minister said yesterday and what I said yesterday.

with people they are not normally spending time with."

Asked about Tory MPs in Parliament, he replied: "They are not strangers.

"Conservative back benchers whether they're in Parliament, in the chamber itself, in the meeting rooms and things..."

© Andrew Parsons / No10 Downing Street Downing Street released the images of the meeting

Sky News' presenter retorted "you don't catch Covid from friends?", to which Mr Javid replied: "It's not... You have to take measures that are appropriate for the prevalence of Covid at the time."

Asked if politicians should be setting an example, he said: "Of course people are influenced by others, but every individual should make the decision based on the advice they are given and the situation they find themselves in at at the time."

© PA Tory MPs have been refusing to wear masks in Parliament

8

Mr Javid later insisted "there are circumstance where people should consider wearing masks" but added: "It's not just one particular measure, masks for example and that's it. It's a suite of measures."

Mr Javid was slammed by opposition politicians and Twitter users.

Shadow Health Minister Justin Madders said: "A worrying state of affairs if the Health Secretary believes Covid is only transmitted by strangers".

Green Party peer Jenny Jones tweeted: "Covid understanding zero".

to my own mother's memorial service.

"I'd known most of the people there since I (or they) were born."

TOPICS FOR YOU

Seniors Without A Power Of Attorney Must Read This

Ad Save Money Market

How Much Should Solar Panels Cost In 2021?

Ad Eco Experts

MORE FROM MIRROR

Michael Schumacher's wife admits family is undergoing therapy...

Why is Louise Minchin leaving BBC Breakfast and where will she go next?

Mauricio Pochettino identifies PSG's "team to beat" in this season's...

Mirror VISIT SITE >

Samsung Galaxy Tab S7 Keyboard Cover In Black (EF-DT870BEGGB) - £189.00

Ad Samsung

► AdChoices

MORE FOR YOU

4 out of 5 people recommend this floor

Ad Floor Samples | Research Links

UK Seniors Aged 51 to 81 Can Claim This Brilliant New Benefit

Ad musthavemoneytips.co.uk

8

Sky News
Javid def office ad surge wa

5 Truths About Lifetime Mortgages All Over 70s Should Know

Ad Royal London

ES Evening Standard

Sajid Javid blasts Nicki Minaj's 'ridiculous tweets' about coronavirus...

PA Media

Sajid Javid: It would be irresponsible to rule out another lockdown

Top Brits This Doc Cost

Ad Dog Hea

Daily Mail
Eco-mok AGAIN

Cat Gives Birth, Vets Notice The Kittens Don't Look Like Kittens

Ad Bedtimez

The Guardian

NHS app storing facial verification data via contract with firm linked...

The NHS app is collecting and storing facial verification data from UK citizens in a process which has fuelled concerns about transparency and accountability. The data collection is taking place under a contract with a company linked to

ES Evening St
Best pict

>

The Guardian

Exponential by Azeem Azhar review – bridging the technology gap

Lisa Bonet Is 53, & This Is How She Looks Now

Ad Love In Star News

Reuters

EU to propose ban on products made by forced labour - von der Leyen

Indy 100
Scientist: discovered found or

8

The Independent

The Independent

14 Cancer Signs And Symptoms You Should

Mirror